

Sheriff Says County Can't Afford E-911

By Irene Pettyjohn

Crawford County Sheriff Harold Hatfield told county commissioners at their September 11 meeting that E-911 is a luxury that residents do not need and can not afford.

In an interview with Sheriff Hatfield, undersheriff Tom Coors, and jail administrator Mike Johnson on September 12, Hatfield said E-911 could actually cause more harm than good if it begins taking revenue away from his department.

"What good is E-911 if we cannot send out a car because of the commission's overtime freeze?" asked Hatfield.

Hatfield was referring to the commissioners' recent overtime freeze for all county employees as they attempt to reduce the county's projected $115,000 budget deficit. He said if the overtime freeze includes his road officers it will break the minimum staffing clause in the officers' union contract.

"This clause states there will be two officers on duty during the hours of darkness," said Hatfield. "This means if one officer comes to work and the second officer calls in sick or is on vacation and we cannot replace the second officer because of the overtime freeze, the first officer will not be allowed to respond to calls until the city or state police can back them up."

"For many years, the people in Crawford County knew when they called there would be a county car sent out," Hatfield continued. "Maybe it would be a hair late, but would be there. Now, it could be so late it will be the next morning at 8 a.m., no matter what happened the night before."

Hatfield is convinced that even if the county gets some grant monies, E-911 is still going to need some county money to cover operational costs and he is concerned these monies are going to come from his department's budget. Sheriff department personnel have already been approached about wage concessions to help balance the 1991 projected budget deficit.

"It's pretty hard to tell the union we don't have any money....that the county can't take money out of the revolving fund, which they can," said Hatfield, "when I believe they want to save the biggest chunk for E-911."

On Thursday, September 19, commissioners on the Law Enforcement Committee assured Sheriff Hatfield that their overtime freeze was not intended to violate the minimum staffing clause in the contract between Sheriff department road officers and the county. Hatfield said, with that understanding, road patrols will continue after dark.

E-911 STAFFING QUESTIONED

According to Hatfield, emergency services to Crawford County would not be affected if E-911 was postponed until a better way of financing it can be found. Last summer commissioners decided against asking voters to approve millage to pay for the county's E-911 system.

Johnson said commissioners asked E-911 coordinator Howard Taylor and director Larry Akers to draw up a budget for their program, but when they did, commissioners told them it was too high and asked them to go back and draw up another budget for $150,000. He said this lower budget, which allows for only one dispatcher per shift, has been called unrealistic by both Taylor and Akers.

Johnson said he does not think E-911 can operate with only one dispatcher on duty. He remembered a situation he confronted while working relief for dispatcher, Larry Akers, where he answered an emergency call from a mother whose baby had stopped breathing.

"I was on the telephone with the woman, trying to calm her down and talk her through infant CPR while the police and ambulance were rolling," he said. "One person couldn't handle the telephone and radio given that situation. I had to have another person in to help me." Johnson said because central dispatch was located at the Sheriff department Akers was able to return to the central dispatch office and take over the radio and take other telephone calls.

"There has never been a complaint filed about the way central dispatch has responded to an emergency call, whether it was fire, ambulance, or police," stated Hatfield.

"Last year we had probably one of the worst disasters this county has ever had," said Coors, referring to the May 8 Stephan Bridge forest fire, "and they didn't dial E-911. They dialed 348-6341. No one was injured and nobody died."

During the fire, Hatfield said there were as many as five people working dispatch and manning the telephones at central dispatch, at the same time.

Coors said they realized the costs paid so far on E-911 are not responsible for the county's current budget deficit.

"The big expense is going to come next year and the following years, when the commissioners find out that E-911 cannot operate with four people, seven days a week, 24-hours a day," he said.

"Some one is going on vacation, somebody is going to be sick," said Hatfield. "In addition to having to hire more dispatchers, corrections is going to have to double its staff. This whole crisis involving E-911, in my opinion, is the commissioners' making, one way or the other."

"It's important to look at the whole picture," said Coors. "It's not going to cost so much to move central dispatch, but what's it really going to cost to

E-911 Director Says System Will Benefit Residents

By Irene Pettyjohn

Director Larry Akers has some serious concerns about whether the county's new E-911 emergency system can operate with the "bare bones" staff approved by county commissioners, but he is convinced residents will benefit from the new "state-of-the-art" system when it begins on November 1.

"It's hard to know for sure how we will manage with only four dispatchers until we get going," said Akers, a nine-year veteran dispatcher with the Sheriff's department. "If a dispatcher is on alone, he cannot stay on the telephone with someone and be on the radio paging out emergency responding units and talking with these units while they are enroute," he explained. "And the kicker is, what do we do if we get a second emergency call at the same time? We really can't put a caller with an emergency on hold, because they have a tendency to hang up if you're not talking to them."

Dispatchers working without a back-up, is Akers' chief staffing concern. When central dispatch was located within the Sheriff's department, clerical and corrections personnel were used to back-up dispatchers should an emergency arise. They were also used to relieve dispatchers during break times.

"We can't depend on back-up from the Sheriff's department in our new location," said Akers. "The corrections officer can't leave the jail and if an emergency occurs, the road officer will either be at the scene or enroute. Besides," he added, "they won't be trained on the new system anyway."

He said separating central dispatch and E-911 from the Sheriff department was necessary because grant monies for E-911 would not have been available otherwise.

Kalkaska's E-911 system is located at the Sheriff's department, but Akers said it is totally separate entity, secured behind locked doors. He said dispatchers and corrections officers do not relieve one another and it is manned by one full time dispatcher and a receptionist/clerk who doubles as back-up for the dispatcher.

E-911 coordinator Howard Taylor is also concerned about staffing restraints imposed by what he considers, an inadequate budget. Taylor said the program needs at least two additional employees to work the second and third shifts to make the program work. Akers will serve as back-up on the first shift. The primary responsibility of the two additional employees would be to keep the master computer terminal updated with the most current information available. They would also be cross-trained as dispatchers, able to relieve for daily breaks and help out during busy times or emergencies. Taylor said the additional employees could also cover for pass days, vacations, and sick days, circumstances not provided for with only four dispatchers.

"E-911 is only as good as the information in the computer's master terminal," said Taylor. In addition to health concerns such as the presence of diabetes or heart disease, this information can include the ages of each resident or whether a resident is blind, deaf, or an invalid. Businesses can register hazardous materials present at their location.

To gather this information, Akers said E-911 will be sending out cards in November, giving residents and business owners an opportunity to register special conditions present at each residence and business.

Once the E-911 office begins receiving these cards back, Taylor said it will take months before all the information can be entered into the computer. In addition to this information, Taylor said the employees will still have daily changes to make as well as new "first time" information to enter.

GTE central officer supervisor for the Grayling area Tom Trenary said GTE makes about 300 telephone changes in the Grayling area each month. All of these changes will have to be entered into the E-911 master computer.

Because of the confidential nature of E-911 information, Taylor told commissioners that access should be limited to only a few employees. He said these employees should be screened to ensure they are extremely discreet.

Commission chairman Robert McLachlan said he expects that another person will be hired for E-911 next year and that 1/3 of the wages for this employee will be paid for by monies from the Michigan State Police. In the meantime, McLachlan said he is confident that if there is anyway to run the program with minimum staffing, utilizing volunteers, Taylor and Akers will find it.

"E-911 is for the health, safety, and well-being of the entire community," said McLachlan. "With the primary responsibility to get emergency services to people as quickly as possible."

Akers said he is afraid that without adequate staffing, which he says is at least seven employees, emergency calls could be missed while the only dispatcher on duty is in the bathroom.

E-911, STATE-OF-THE-ART SYSTEM

"Central dispatch has worked in the past," said Akers, "but E-911 will offer even better and faster emergency responses." He said central dispatch's services cannot compare to those of E-911.

Several years ago, Akers said Beaver Creek tried to include a E-911-type system with central dispatch for their area, but dispatchers still had to do much of the information gathering. He said the E-911 system provides everything needed by dispatchers in an emergency situation.

The new computerized system produces an instantaneous read-out on a computer monitor detailing the location of the caller, names of persons living at that location, and can list various health concerns. This information is available before the two parties have time to exchange "hellos."

If the E-911 dispatcher receives a call and no one answers, a follow-up call is made to the telephone number immediately. If no one answers or the dispatcher receives a busy signal, a patrol car will be dispatched immediately and emergency agencies will be notified to stand-by. If the location of the caller is a distance away from the city, he said an ambulance will probably be sent to insure a timely arrival should one be necessary.

Akers said the E-911 read-out is vitally important to both the caller and to the various emergency services. Several years ago, while working the midnight shift, Akers remembers receiving a call from an elderly woman who yelled "Fire!" and started to hang up.

"I don't know how I was able to stop her from hanging up," he said, "but I did and was able to learn her location." Akers said, with the old central dispatch, if the woman had hung up, the dispatcher would have had no option but to wait, either for another telephone call or for the inevitable glow in the sky.

He also remembers receiving a call from a young child who had come home from school and found nobody home. Akers said he could not remember the child's age, but said he was too young to know his address.

"Luckily the child called the operator and the operator called us," he explained. "She stayed on the line and traced the call while I talked to the child."

Akers said the whole process took about ten to 15 minutes. He said time was not a factor in this case, but if the call had been about a child who was not breathing, the ten to 15 minutes

DSS Drops Shawono Proposal

The Michigan Department of Social Services has dropped a proposal to have Shawono Center delinquent youths educated by the Crawford AuSable School District.

On Tuesday morning, September 24, the Michigan Department of Education told Crawford AuSable Superintendent Kent Reynolds that DSS has withdrawn its proposal in three state areas so far. The Department of Education said DSS felt the proposal would have too much impact on these areas.

Besides Crawford AuSable, the other two school districts are in Genesee County and the Detroit area.

Reynolds said it was great news but urged citizens interested in a petition drive for legislators to keep Shawono youth out of our local schools to go ahead with their efforts to make sure the proposal doesn't re-surface at some later time.

Lehman Prisoner Still At Large

Douglas Neyman, 32, escaped from Camp Lehman on Tuesday, September 17.

Warden John Wireman said corrections officers were looking for Neyman at about 3:30 p.m. Tuesday and were unable to find him. The camp called an emergency head count that confirmed him missing.

Neyman had served 4 1/2 years of a six-year, eight-month to ten year sentence for assault to do great bodily harm less than murder. He was not eligible for parole until November, 1992.

Wireman said Neyman is from Saginaw and does not think the prisoner is still in the area. He said Neyman is not considered dangerous.

Neyman's escape is the fourth escape from Camp Lehman this year, the third escape occurred in early spring.

As of Tuesday morning, September 24, he was still at large.

Civil Air Patrol Squadron Being Formed In Grayling

Civil Air Patrol, or CAP, is the US AirForce Auxiliary staffed by civilian volunteers who pay yearly membership dues, wear military uniforms, practice military customs and courtesies, and conduct operations in a military manner.

Adult members are enrolled in the senior program, and receive training in any number of fields to including Emergency Services, Cadet Program, Communications, Administration, Flight Operations, Ground Operations, Leadership, and Aerospace Education.

Adult members are schooled in military and CAP history, wear of the uniform, etiquette, military formations and parades, physical training, and administrative matters. Qualifying seniors are commissioned second lieutenants and assigned to a staff position for further training and limited command responsibilities.

Teen members are enrolled in the Cadet Program, and receive training in the same areas as the seniors with emphasis in developing leadership skills, aerospace knowledge, physical fitness, and moral leadership.

A new squadron is being established in the Grayling area. The Grayling Composite Squadron will consist of both senior and cadet members.

Wurtsmith Credit Union Announces New Name

Oscoda-Wurtsmith Community Federal Credit Union officially became Northland Area Federal Credit Union on Monday, September 16.

"The only thing different about the credit union is the name," said Terrence Bigda, president of WCFCU. "All services and operations will remain the same. Checks ordered under the Wurtsmith name will be honored until new checks are ordered, and direct deposits, payrolls and other such services will not be affected."

Bigda said the name change had been under consideration for some time and the decision to change the name had nothing to do with the closure of Wurtsmith AFB.

"The credit union needed a name that would adequately describe the areas we serve. To a stranger coming into the community-based credit union and Northland Area perfectly describes the areas we serve. In addition to the name change, our members can look forward to seeing a new logo for the credit union."

Bond Issue Will Help Eliminate Dangerous Traffic Situation Too

I take notice of last week's, Sept. 19, 1991, issue of the Avalanche of the unfortunate accident of the school bus driven by Mrs. Dena Kolb, which struck the Hanson vehicle as it was passing by the elementary school on Michigan Avenue. Yes, it was an unfortunate accident but thank God, no one was hurt or injured. It is of special interest to note that Mrs. Kolb is a most careful and very conscientious school bus driver; the safety of the children are at all times #1 on her mind. It was Mrs. Kolb who first radioed in the alarm of the great Down River fire May 8, 1990, while on her school bus route. Also of even greater interest is the fact that at the end of the 90-91 school year, Mrs. Kolb completed 20 years of school bus driving without one single accident, three years of this at Hemlock (west of Saginaw), Mich. school system and seventeen years with the Crawford-AuSable school system. This, in itself, is a record that anyone of us would be very proud to achieve. Crawford-AuSable schools is very fortunate to have a person such as Mrs. Kolb on their bus system staff.

Another point that should be brought to mind is the present very overcrowded situation at our elementary school in which buses are arriving and departing, and at the same time, scores of children are on foot crossing busy Michigan Avenue to and from school.

Last week's issue, Sept. 19, 1991, states on page 1 that hopefully, in the event that our new classrooms at the elementary school are voted in, these crowded situations will be much relieved, with additional playgrounds and parking spaces added, along with a bus traffic lane for both schools. Hopefully this will eliminate the present overly crowded and dangerous situation.

If you are reading this on Wednesday, Sept. 25th, please be reminded that the voting polls are open until 8 p.m. tonight. Let's all get down to vote in our new additional elementary school to eliminate the overly crowded situation and provide better educational conditions for our children.

DNR, Private Interest Groups Dictate Use Of AuSable River Say Property Owners

I'm writing this letter to urge the citizens of this community to unite, and as a group, to start questioning what the D.N.R. and so called "private interest groups," under the guise of "looking out for the best interests of natural resources," are doing to the AuSable River. I'm questioning why they have the power to dictate what our rights are as property owners, and how they can get away with destroying an established eco-system and contaminating a river with silt.

A few years ago the D.N.R. sued private citizens in the Vanderbilt area for removing a dam and doing exactly the damage they (DNR) are doing to the AuSable now?

The real issue, at this point, is not if dams are bad for a free flowing river, or should dams stay in or be taken out. The issue is, does the D.N.R. know what they're doing? Have they ever successfully removed a dam without killing everything above and below it? (They couldn't answer that question when asked!) Was an environmental study done (which is required) to see what the actual impact of such removal would be on the surrounding community and river. Or did they just start yanking boards out of Salling Dam spillway and let come what may? Will they do a study before they start removing the dam in city park, or will they again just yank out boards and let come what may?

John Robertson of the Department of Natural Resources states that "dam removals are not as simple as they sound, there's a lot of silt behind them and haphazard removal (does that mean not study done) could send choking clouds of silt downstream, killing insects and fish life."

The residents below Salling Dam were told by D.N.R. officials that the dam drawdown would be a slow process and most of the silt would be trapped and removed, thereby having little effect on the residents downstream. With the construction of the new spillway a sediment trap was to be installed in front of the spillway and a silt trap behind. I did see two boards with "cheesecloth" strung between them located at the back of the spillway before the drawdown started. Was this their "silt trap"? Needless to say it washed away with the first batch of silt over the dam. Are they in such a hurry to remove the dam that they didn't take the time to find out just how much silt there was in Salling Pond? (What are they afraid of that they're in such a hurry?)

Since the drawdown of Salling Dam started in mid-June of this summer

there has been a continuous flow of black silt over the dam with accumulation of as much as one and one-half feet on the river bottom from below the dam to the M 72 West bridge. Now, David Smith, D.N.R. district fisheries biologist and project manager says, "the silt is light so it moves in suspension and will have to keep moving because it can't be removed as sand could." Smith claims initial probes "showed about six inches to one foot of silt at the dam," what he fails to add is how much more silt there is in the rest of the pond and the only place there is for it to go is over the dam and downstream.

When a local citizen expressed concern about finding dead fish on the stretch of river below Salling Dam with silt residue in their gills, Gerald Casey, fisheries technician supervisor at the Grayling D.N.R. office, attributed it to "a significant amount of fishing activity near the dam and the fish could have died as a result of being caught and then released, which increases the fish mortality rate." When the D.N.R. and "private interest groups" pushed for "catch and release" on the "holy water" stretch of the mainstream they claimed this would make for larger trout and "high quality angling." Now they're saying catch and release increases fish mortality rate. Do they change their story to fit the situation?

What about our rights as property owners on the AuSable? David MacLean, D.N.R. regional natural river zoning administrator, denies charges that the dam was being removed because of pressure by groups such as Trout Unlimited. He says, "this is department money, Trout Unlimited has nothing to do with it" and yet David Smith says the project is funded by the D.N.R. and "private interest groups" including Trout Unlimited and Angler of the AuSable. He says, "so far more than $10,000 has been pledged by Anglers of the AuSable and an undisclosed amount has been pledged by Trout Unlimited."

Rusty Gates Jr., president of Anglers of the AuSable and owner of Gates AuSable Lodge, states his reasons for living on the river in an article about the AuSable River featured in Michigan Living magazine. He states, "the river has its own wildlife scenery, we have bobcat, deer, otter, and bald eagles, we see this all year." So did the residents on Salling Pond until Anglers of the AuSable and other "private interest groups" pushed their rights as more important than ours and what we have left is a stump — studded, dangerous, mud-flat. We never see the bald eagle anymore, we used to on an almost daily basis. And the last time we saw one of the others it was stuck and struggling in the muck, trying to make it to shore alongside the carcasses of animals that had already succumbed to the suffocating mud. Smith states, "the animals that are there now will find new places to go." (What about the thirty to forty dead ones we've counted that were trapped in the muck and died a slow death, and what about two people who have almost drowned in the quicksand-like mud. We want to be able to use our stretch of river and we like seeing our river animals, just like Gates likes to use and see the animals on his stretch of river, and who are these people to decide that we'd rather have trout in the stretch of river above Salling Dam instead of the pike that were there? I guess I don't have enough money to have any rights as a property owner on the river. (My rights wouldn't have destroyed the rights of the "private interest groups" like they have destroyed mine.)

When the residents on Salling Pond expressed concern about what the drawdown would do to their property value, MacLean (DNR) stated that "the mud flats along the river would dry, vegetation would grow and property in the area would probably increase in value." According to Smith (DNR), having "waterfront access on one of the country's prime trout streams certainly won't cause reductions in property values." I may have waterfront access but I can't even get to the water without going over my head in muck. The D.N.R. says it will dry up and stabilize and yet I've questioned experts in this area and they tell me the silt is organic material, foreign to the natural soil and that it will not stabilize to become solid river banks and yards. I'm also told that this stretch of river does not have the requisites to be a "prime stretch of trout stream," it will be years, if ever, before that happens. What about our property values in the meantime? Smith tells us "the property values of the AuSable will always be there for them." (I don't see any of them up here trying to buy any of this prime trout stream frontage!)

I think we all realize that the dam at city park is next. What will happen to all the silt that has drained from Salling Pond plus what has built up in the millpond? The D.N.R. has already demonstrated in the drawdown of Salling Dam that they can't stop the silt and they have admitted that "the silt moves in suspension and will have to keep moving because it cannot be

To you people who question what removing the dam at city park will do to the mainstream just stop at the M 72 West bridge or the bridge on Old Dam Road and take a look at the river.

To you people who question what it will do to your property value or your river wildlife, don't worry, after all "the property values of the AuSable will always be there for you" and "your wildlife (that survive) will find someplace else to go."

What about your rights as property owners on the AuSable, if you've got enough money, no problem.

Why does the D.N.R. and these so-called "private interest groups" have the power to push us around like they do? Because we let them!

Engler home safe . . . for now

EFFORTS TO RECALL Gov. John Engler during his first few months in office have fizzled, to nobody's real surprise.

The campaign to recall the governor needed 641,141 valid signatures on petitions asking for a special recall election.

Despite recurring assurances from recall leaders that things were going well — including claims during the closing days of the frustrated campaign that more than enough signatures were collected — the drive was only halfway to its goal when time ran out.

Recall signatures must be collected during a continuous 90-day period, according to an interpretation of Michigan law by Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley. While this opinion is seen by many to stretch the election statutes a bit, it is the law of the state until some court rules otherwise.

ANTI-ENGLER FORCES insisted on filing their signatures with the state elections division, despite the shortage. With 641,141 valid signatures needed, only 381,818 in total were filed, and about 75,000 of those were deemed invalid after cursory examination by state inspectors.

The recall should not have been filed at all.

Recall organizers certainly knew — or should have known — they were way short of enough to qualify. The state figures it cost $6,500 to sift through petitions; the governor's backers want the recall forces to pay for it. They won't.

Another issue emerges at this point: How can it cost $6,500 to count 350,000 signatures on petitions? Maybe Gov. Engler should start an investigation into management practices at the elections office if they spend money like that.

WHAT HAPPENED to the recall effort?

John Truscott, Mr. Engler's press secretary, said it proves there was "never a groundswell of support for the recall." Obviously Mr. Truscott is right.

Jackie Schrader, the housewife who helped spearhead the recall campaign, said she thought the state's count was "impossibly low," but she accepted defeat.

"There's enough signatures out there to recall him," Ms. Schrader said. "It's just hard to get people to collect them."

Well, yes it is. Anyone who has ever circulated petitions for anything knows it's no easy job. And to collect 641,141 signatures to recall a new governor — with a need for about 750,000 signatures to assure you have enough good ones — proved an impossible task for Ms. Schrader and friends.

Ms. Schrader also is likely correct some red meat again, but not with the gusto of the old days. Losing your taste buds is quite a loss, it takes one of your greatest pleasures away. There are some foods I still enjoy but the sharpness of a lot of flavors have been dulled.

I was a boy who always enjoyed good food and Mom and Carolyn both could turn food that was extra good. Right now I can smell a nice pot roast cooking and it sure smells good. It was.

Like the Phoenix bird of Greek mythology, the old AuSable Hotel is once more taking shape to become alive. Thanks to a lot of volunteer labor it soon will be ready to greet the Frederic and down state folks as it has for many years. As near as I could determine it was built between 1885 and 1890 and saw a lot of history of the town of Frederic develop. From the days of the lumberjacks through the depression, wars, good times and bad. I can remember when it was a home away from home for many deer hunters. Once again the folks have shown that they will help out a neighbor.

My column will be a little short this week for Carolyn is slated for surgery Thursday, the 19th, and I have a lot on my mind.

Opinions

Let's Talk About It

By Joe Murphy

The old man is really feeling old this week — I have just become a great grandfather. My grandson, David Bentley's wife Janet, had a fine baby boy which I hear they are going to name Joseph Robert. He will make eight generations of our folks who have cast their lot in the state of Michigan. Little Joe will be a very loved, and I'm afraid spoiled child with all the great grandmas, grandmas, and such to cater to his every whim. Of course we on the male side of the family will not be so easy on him. I figure maybe by spring I can send him out to rake my yard and teach him to use the lawn mower.

Welcome to the family, Joseph Robert Bentley, may you live a long and happy life.

Do any of you ladies have a recipe for real good baked beans? If so, would you send the old man a copy? Baked beans are one of the few foods that I still enjoy and I am looking for good recipes to try. When I had radiation for the brain tumor they must have destroyed some of my taste buds for I have very few foods I really enjoy anymore. I used to be a meat and potatoes man, now I find that potatoes have a musty taste to me. I have got to where I can eat

Notes From The Woods

By Nancy Lemmen

Very rarely and then, only reluctantly, do I submit a column without first running it past my husband Dave. In his role as my personal editor, he feels free from any constraints to be polite or gentle about my writing that other people unrelated to me might have.

When necessary, he edits my work with such vigor and unrestrained counsel (for example, "I drew it that entire column if I were you"), that occasionally—through forced smile and clenched teeth—I suggest to him that he might consider writing "Notes From The Woods."

This week's column was, in fact, written by Dave. It comes from a real letter he sent to his niece who has recently enrolled for her freshman year at University of Michigan. After spending nine years as a student on the campus of Michigan State University and five years as an instructor at Alma

College, he has plenty of experience in and memories of collegiate life.

Dear Heather,

So now you are a college student. A coed. A U-M student at that. Pretty good for a family that has produced MSU and EMU grads to date.

You now carry our family educational tradition to the best school in the state and one of the Top 20 universities in the whole country, thus making it possible for us to identify with the past, present and future glories of U-M, both in the academic arena and on the athletic field.

U-M. A new star for the family crown brought home by our youngest member. We are all proud of you and you're confident you'll make a good showing there. But hold on to your hat, kiddo. You are in for what might be the most tumultuous year of your life.

More changes will be collapsed into one short nine-month span than any other comparable time so far. You will need to remember who you are, and where you came from, to provide yourself with roots for all the growth and changes that are coming.

Enjoy college life. Participate to the fullest in all the university has to offer. Become acquainted with all sorts of people who are unlike you. Try out new ideas. But at the same time don't lose touch with that sweet, bright little girl who used to play in the apple tree at the cabin in Clare.

Remember that many people go through hard times and wrong choices while searching for the basic satisfactions that come from having a small group of devoted, loving, supportive family members — something you have had the luxury of taking for granted, but which not all people have had or will ever have. There isn't enough money, fame or academic or social success in the world to make up for the harm that results from not feeling loved. So you already have a good start for the adventures and challenges ahead.

Sample it all so one day you will be able to tell your children what U-M campus life was like in the 1990s if they ask (and even if they don't).

Take the most interesting, talked-about courses from the best instructors. Try to get in classes where the instructor wrote the textbook used by the students. If the professor is colorful, famous or in the news, get in the course. Sign up for classes that interest you, even if they are outside your major. Avoid getting locked into some rigid, standardized program of study.

Attend all your classes, buy and read assigned books, go to the library early to do the reserved readings and to become very comfortable and familiar with the environment. Effective use of a library is a hallmark of an educated person.

Go to hear the famous speakers on campus, the entertainers, the politicians, the newsmakers. Go to experimental theatre performances, dance troupes, art galleries, minor sports (lacrosse, fencing, gymnastics). Go to the coffee houses where the 1950s-style beatniks hang out and to the football games and pep rallies and sorority teas. Visit places where the foreign students gather.

Meet and talk with minority students, New Yorkers, foreign students, Californians, Southerners. Find out from some Arabian students their views on the Gulf war. Talk with some Native Americans, Third World students and football and basketball players.

Don't just stick with Traverse City types or you (and the family) won't get your money's worth. Rely on your friends from home as a support group, but make the effort to branch out, then bring your best "finds" back to your group or go with them to their groups.

You have four or so years to soak up enough university culture, attitudes and friendships to last you the rest of your life. Be ambitious to become a thorough and well-rounded college student. Remember, the best of what you'll learn will happen outside the classrooms, BUT you'll need a lot of the classroom stuff to put it in its proper context and perspective.

I showed this letter to Nancy. She said, "Sounds fairly bossy," and I said, "That's what uncles do."

Have a great year. I want a progress report at Thanksgiving.

Love, Dave

Cards of Thanks

This is a thank you note for all of the wonderful people, friends and relatives who surprised us with a 50th wedding anniversary party. Who would believe so many big mouths could keep such a well prepared and planned occasion such a closely guarded secret. Thanks also for all of the many cards, gifts, and well wishing letter from people too numerous to mention. I would like to think we will all be around in 50 more years to do it again.

Thanks again,
Allen and Deloris Carr

GRAYLING TOWNSHIP NOTICE
NOTICE OF RIGHT TO REFERENDUM ON BECOMING A CHARTER TOWNSHIP

Official certification has been received from the Michigan Secretary of State that the township of Grayling has a population of 2,000 or more and the township board has the right to exercise one of three options concerning status as a charter township under the provisions of Act 359, Public Acts of 1947, as amended:

1. Adopt by majority vote a resolution opposed to incorporation as a charter township.
2. Adopt by majority vote a resolution of intent to approve incorporation as a charter township.
3. Adopt by majority vote a resolution to place before the electorate at the next regular or special township election the question of incorporation as a charter township.

In the event option 2 is adopted by the township board, the citizens of the township have the right to file a "Right to Referendum Petition." This petition must be filed within the 60 days which must lapse between passage of a resolution of intent to incorporate and final passage of the resolution to incorporate as a charter township.

The petition will follow, in general form, the nominating petition form as prescribed in the Michigan Election Law, and in the heading will indicate "Disagreement of Intent to Incorporate as a Charter Township." The petition must be signed by not less than 10% of the registered voters of the township based on the vote cast for all candidates for supervisor at the last election at which a supervisor was elected.

If the petition is successful, the question of incorporation will be placed on the ballot at the next general or special township election.

Kirby-Taylor Married

The Community United Methodist Church of Standish was the setting of the wedding August 10, 1991, of Virginia Kirby of Saginaw and Timothy Taylor, formerly of Grayling. The double ring, candle light ceremony was performed by Chaplin James Pennington of the Saginaw General Hospital.

Parents of the groom are Howard Taylor of Grayling and Sandra Taylor of Whitmore Lake. The bride's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Donald Kirby of Saginaw.

Matron of honor was Mary Grallant, a friend of the bride. Her brother, Donald Kirby Jr. was usher and attendant along with her sisters, Karen and Amy Kirby. The bridal attendants wore peach brocade, tea-length gowns with matching slippers, and they carried a single peach rose.

The groom was attended by Kraig Myers as best man. His sister, Alicia Vazquez was usherette and attendant along with Dave McCluskey and Jamie Cox. The male attendants wore grey tuxedos with peach accessories.

The bride designed and fashioned her gown of white satin and lace accented in sequins and seed pearls. Her chapel length train was scattered with rose lace appliques trimmed in sequins and pearls. Her lace veil dropped from a cascade of pearls and white roses. The groom was attired in a white tuxedo with tails and a peach cummerbund and tie.

A reception and buffet dinner was served at the Charbonneau Hall in Pinconning. John Williams acted as disc jockey at the celebration and dance that followed.

After a honeymoon throughout the eastern states they are at home in Standish.

Tim is employed at the Cummins Michigan Incorporation of Saginaw and Virginia is employed at the Saginaw General Hospital.

Your Guide To Fine Dining

October is National Restaurant Month!

The Crawford County Avalanche will publish a restaurant guide throughout the month of October featuring more than a dozen area restaurants.

Make dining out a regular part of your week. You'll be sure to find that special eating place suited to your tastes by using the Restaurant Guide from your hometown newspaper.

PUBLIC NOTICE

It is now the policy of the Crawford County Road Commission to let new gravel grades rest through one winter cycle to allow frost action to identify any weak spots in the road base prior to the installation of the Bituminous wearing surface (Black Top). This policy will apply to all future local road construction where County forces perform the excavation and base construction. When possible economically, this will also apply to any local construction done by outside contractors, and to the top course on Primary roads. This will allow us to repair any soft spots or other base problems with lower priced materials, and give a better riding surface when the job is finished.

Due to the tight cash flow while we wait for word on a gas tax adjustment, this policy applies to all local roads currently under construction agreements with the various townships, including Headquarters Road, Michigan and Euclid Avenues in Grayling Township, and any others currently included in the local paving program.

Motion by O'Mara/Ashton, carried, to recess regular session and open public hearing of Sandy Trail maintenance Special Assessment Roll.

PUBLIC HEARING

Supervisor explained proposed improvements and reviewed changes resulting from inquiries made by persons at the August 13th hearing regarding the possibility of assessing persons whose Sandy Trail for access to parcels not fronting the road. Stencil informed citizens that he had discovered 30 parcels that derive benefit from using Sandy Trail for access. He then instructed the clerk to schedule tonight's public hearing and notified affected property owners that due to the inclusion another tentative Special Assessment Roll was being drawn under the unit method rather than the front foot formula. Frontage owners would be assessed $100 per year and access owners $66.67 per year. Due to a calculation error the access owners' portion has since been reduced to $60 per year. Stencil read into the record correspondence from Jack Sutton, access parcel owner, stating he does not use Sandy Trail but comes through Flora Fauna Subdivision. Stencil stated Mr. Sutton's legal access is Sandy Trail and Flora Fauna Road could be blocked off at any time.

Floor was opened for public comment. Barbara K and Rex Shepard submitted copy of written objections to the project which will become a part of the Special Assessment file. Mrs. Shepard also read their concerns aloud.

The Shepard's summarized objections follow:

1. They were not asked to sign the original petition.

2. They were not notified of possible inclusion in the Special Assessment District until August 23, 1991.

3. They feel since they only use approximately 5% (200 meters) of Sandy Trail to reach M-72 that $30 per year would be more equitable.

4. That Sandy Trail is a county-line abandoned road or section line road and no document has been recorded abandoning it. Therefore it is a County road and shouldn't be privately specially assessed.

Board member's responses to some of the above allegation.

1. Ashton: Public Act 188 petitions for private road improvement requires signatures of property owners of more than 50% of the total frontage along the proposed improvement. The Shepard's are not frontage owners therefore their signatures would have been invalid.

2. Ashton: The probability that there were persons that used Sandy Trail for access and therefore derived benefit and should be assessed was not an issue until the August 13th hearing when Dave Tacey, a frontage owner, posed the question. The Township Board then directed the Supervisor to investigate the situation and if he deemed these properties assessable to schedule a public hearing to include these parcels and adjust the proposed assessment roll.

3. Stencil: He found 30 parcels he believed assessable, scheduled a public hearing and proceeded with notification of property owners and required publications in a timely manner.

Note: Records reflect that notification and publication requirements were in compliance with PA188.

4. Stencil: It's customary to use 2 values. One for frontage owners, one for access only. It would be difficult to break it down into percentage of benefit derived per foot.

Assessment records and Road Commission records have it categorized as a private road.

Larry Murdoch: He does not derive any benefit six months of year as road is not plowed to his property. Also, two impassable hills detour traffic across his parcel.

Doug Speedie: (Access only) asked procedure for increasing length of improvements to go past his parcel. He is over a mile back and feels he only derives 30% benefit.

Motion by Ashton/McNamara, carried, to close public hearing (8:55 p.m.).

Motion by Ashton/O'Mara, carried, to have Supervisor check out the possibility that Sandy Trail has never been abandoned as a Section Line Rd. and could, therefore, be a county road. All ayes. Motion carried.

Motion by O'Mara/Ashton, carried, to schedule a public hearing of Sandy Trail Assessment Roll for October 8, 1991, at 8 p.m. All ayes. Motion carried.

Motion by McNamara/Medler to accept a petition from 80% Harbor Beach Subdivision property owners requesting creation of a Special Assessment District to spread the cost of paving the interior roads of said subdivision and schedule a public hearing of necessity for October 8, 1991. All ayes. Motion carried.

Motion by McNamara/Ashton, carried, to increase hourly rate for cleaning maintenance of Township Hall to $7 per hour and increase hours from 3 to 4 per week. Roll call: All ayes. Motion carried.

Motion by O'Mara/McNamara, carried, to continue Township comprehensive municipal liability and workman's compensation coverage through Municipal Underwriters of Michigan/

Michigan Township Participating Plan for period October 1, 1991-September 30, 1992. Roll call: All ayes. Motion carried.

Motion by McNamara/Medler, carried, to accept bid of $1495 from Asphalt Seal Coating Service to fill cracks, seal and paint parking lines for Township Office parking lot. All ayes. Motion carried.

Motion by McNamara/Medler, carried, that due to the proposed closing of Grayling McNamara Airport, Grayling Township accept the return of its year to date contributions. All ayes. Motion carried.

Building Department report on file. Bob McLachlan, chairman of County Bd. of Commissioners briefed the Board regarding Crawford County impending budget cuts.

Motion by O'Mara, support by McNamara, to authorize payment of bills on vouchers 14320-14358 in the amount of $21,793, Board fees of $384.13 and H-911 Aug. mileage of $268.07 for a total of $22,445.20. Roll call: All ayes. Motion carried.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING ON INCREASING PROPERTY TAXES

PLEASE TAKE NOTICE that on Monday, September 30, 1991, at 7 p.m. at the Campus Auditorium, 10775 N. St. Helen Road, Roscommon, Michigan, the Board of Trustees of Kirtland Community College, Michigan, will hold a public hearing on the levying in 1991 of an additional proposed millage rate of 1.5 mills for operating purposes pursuant to Act 5, Public Acts of Michigan, 1982.

The Board of Trustees has the complete authority to establish that 2.5 mills be levied in 1991 from within its present authorized millage rate.

The maximum additional proposed millage rate would increase revenues for operating purposes from ad valorem property tax levies in 1991 otherwise permitted by Act 5, Public Acts of Michigan, 1982, by one hundred fifty percent (150%).

If the additional proposed millage rate is not approved, the college district's revenue for the 1991-92 fiscal year would be eight and fifty-nine hundredths percent (8.59%) higher than the college district's revenue for the immediately preceding fiscal year.

The purpose of the hearing is to receive testimony and discuss the levy of an additional millage rate. Not more than ten (10) days following the public hearing, the Board of Trustees may approve all or any portion of the proposed additional millage rate.

The Board of Trustees plans to take action on the resolution approving the additional proposed millage rate at the close of the hearing on Monday, September 30, 1991.

This notice is given by order of the Board of Trustees.

Awards Will Highlight Annual Chamber Ball

The third annual Grayling Regional Chamber of Commerce Ball is scheduled for this Saturday night. According to Chamber Executive Deborah Allen more than 150 people are expected for the dinner/dance. The Grayling Holiday Inn Ball Room will be the site for the festive event with a menu of shrimp cocktail, prime rib, salad, and dessert. The decoration for this year's Chamber Ball are being provided by The Party Line of Grayling. Additionally, "The Night Society Orchestra" will be the evening's entertainment, the same group that was a great success at last year's Chamber Ball.

The program this year will be expanded to include the formal introductions of the 1991-92 Board of Directors and salutations to the outgoing 1990-91 Board of Directors and officers. The 1991 Citizen of the Year Award will be presented by last year's prestigious Citizen of the Year, Terry Dickinson. The Citizen of the Year Award is given to an individual who is a business professional and who has given unselfishly to promote the Grayling Area as a place to live, work, and play.

A new award to be given on behalf of the Chamber this year is the Athena Award. The Athena Award is an award given to recognize individuals who have promoted or enhanced the professionalism of women. It does not necessarily have to be a woman, yet it does recognize service to one's community, one's self, and one's profession as related to the enhancement of women in the world of work. The Athena Award is sponsored by local Oldsmobile Dealer, and Chamber member business, Scheer Motors. The 1991 Athena Award will be presented by Brad Scheer, owner of Scheer Motors.

As is the tradition at the annual Chamber Ball a secret "Vacation Getaway" has been made available through H.T. Productions. Although the details of the Grand Prize can not be given, it will feature a getaway for two adults to a secret destination, one night's lodging, dinner for two, and a special exciting excursion. If you have not purchased your tickets for the third annual Chamber Ball it may be too late, but call the Chamber office for possible last minute reservations, 348-2921.

Emergency Medical Services Personnel Honored

This year, Americans will experience an estimated 92 million medical emergencies serious enough to require a visit to the emergency department. "Emergency Medical Services: The Team That Cares" is the theme of this year's Emergency Medical Services (EMS) Week, September 22-28.

Mercy Hospital/Grayling sponsors this annual event to recognize the high level of training and commitment shared by the emergency physicians, emergency nurses and emergency medical technicians who provide emergency medical care to area residents. EMS Week is followed by Emergency Nurses Day on Wednesday, October 2, when a EMS and Emergency Nurse Recognition Reception sponsored by Mercy Hospital will be held by the Chief Shoppenagon's Hotel.

"The purpose of this event is to recognize the outstanding efforts of the local EMT personnel in Crawford and Roscommon counties," said Pattie Walker, R.N., Clinical Manager. "Each service nominates an EMT of the Year and those individuals will be awarded a plaque and honored during the reception," she added.

Nationally, EMS Week observance is sponsored by the American College of Emergency Physicians to promote health, safety and the advances of emergency medicine. Emergency medicine was recognized as the 23rd medical specialty in 1979, and is the practice of evaluating, stabilizing, and treating life- and limb-threatening illness and injury.

The Emergency Nurse Association (ENA) is the organization for professional nurses committed to excellence in emergency care with over 21,000 members worldwide. MariAnn Arthur, R.N. and Wilma Kagarise, R.N., Mercy Emergency nurses, are board certified in nursing.

"MariAnn's and Wilma's certification demonstrates their knowledge of specialized emergency nursing needed to care for patients with diverse health problems in various stages of crisis," said Walker. "Attaining a CEN credential reflects their commitment to caring for the patients in our area."

The Meadows Of Grayling News

By Kathy Gillon, Activity Director

Saturday, September Seventh, the Meadows celebrated their Annual Family Picnic. Everyone ate lunch outdoors under a large tent donated by the National Guard.

Once again our fearless administrator, Mark Grantner, allowed everyone a shot at dunking him in the dunk tank. Families, residents, and staff had a ball watching Mark fall into the water, fully dressed in a suit and tie.

Games were provided for the children, and the Kitchen Band, and one man band artist Dean Poepppe, were on hand for the entertainment.

The day ended with the residents' craft table earning more than seventy dollars for the Resident Council Fund. The Resident Council is a non-profit group within the facility made up of residents only. They are able to earn money to make purchases such as table-top theater-type popcorn machine, Nintendo, Sing-A-Lodeon machine, etc. The Resident Council collects Glen's Green Slips and holds craft bazaars. The next scheduled Bazaar is sometime in December.

MICHIGAN SPECIAL OLYMPIC TORCH RUN—Grayling City patrolman Karl Schreiner (front right) participated in the Law Enforcement Torch Run on Tuesday, September 17. Several Special Olympics athletes and Dave McGuire also ran. The Torch Run is sponsored by the Michigan Association of Chiefs of Police, Deputy Sheriff's Association, Little Caesar's and many other businesses throughout Michigan. Grayling City Police raised over $1,200 for Michigan's Special Olympics. All the runners shared lunch together at the Grayling Little Caesar's restaurant after the race.

operate E-911 and now, what's it going to cost to operate the jail?"

MOVING CENTRAL DISPATCH UNNECESSARY

Hatfield is especially critical of the commission's decision to move central dispatch out of the Sheriff department, calling it unnecessary and costly.

The decision of whether to keep central dispatch at the sheriff department or move it into the courthouse annex building was discussed by commissioners for several months before they finally decided to move it. During this time, Hatfield said he told commissioners that moving central dispatch would be costly for the county because additional personnel would have to be hired for both central dispatch and the jail when the two departments could no longer back up one another.

"They were advised about what would happen if they went ahead with it, they knew all the ramifications," Hatfield said, "and they elected to go ahead with it anyway."

In mid-July, Hatfield said he had been approached by two commissioners and asked if he would consider allowing central dispatch and E-911 to move into the larger deputy's room that is large enough to accommodate the additional equipment needed for E-911. He said he not only agreed for use of the deputy's room, but offered the office next door for the director. The deputies agreed to move their room and lockers into the annex.

"I thought it was all set," he said, "but when I came back from a seven-day vacation the commissioners had decided to move central dispatch out, for security reasons."

Johnson said commissioners were concerned about the possibility that an escaped prisoner could break out of jail, knock out the dispatcher, and hold the county's emergency system hostage.

"An escaped inmate is not going to hang around and play with the county's radio system," Johnson stated. "If he gets through my corrections officer it means he's injured him and he's going to be leaving the county as fast as he can."

Hatfield's prediction that more corrections officers would be needed if central dispatch was moved appeared to come true on August 28, when MDOC inspector Diane Jamison met with commissioners and stated the county would have to hire five additional corrections officers. The county will have 30 days to respond after they receive Jamison's recommendations in writing.

"When I took office 6 1/2 years ago, Mike informed me that we were operating the jail short-handed," said Hatfield, "but Mike said the state was not pressing the issue." He said because central dispatch was located in the Sheriff department which allowed the two officers to back up one another in case of an emergency, the state had overlooked the fact that the county was operating the jail one man short. This arrangement also allowed the two officers to cover for one another during break times.

"I advised them to let sleeping dogs lie," he said, "but now it's too late."

Johnson said even if the commission decides to leave E-911 at the Sheriff department, MDOC has indicated it will continue to insist that the additional corrections officers be hired, a position Johnson agrees with.

"It's unsafe for corrections officers to work alone," he stated. Johnson said a Wayne County Jail corrections officer opened a cell door recently and was shot in the chest by a gun smuggled into the jail.

"And the Wayne County Jail has more than 50 corrections officers on duty each shift," he said.

"These things do happen," said Hatfield.

For this reason, Hatfield said he would not approve the latest request from commissioners to allow his clerk/secretaries to cover for corrections officers on their leave days.

"That puts them alone in this building from 4 p.m. to 8 a.m.," said Johnson, "and they're not trained that well." He said before the clerk/secretaries could cover for his corrections officers they would have to receive 160 hours of training and then the county would have to pay them corrections officers wages.

Hatfield said his clerks are trained to book female prisoners, do strip searches, and go on transports, but with the exception of searches, they are always with a certified officer.

Coors said he also tried to get commissioners to explain who was going to relieve dispatchers and help out should an emergency arise and was told "we can work it out."

"That isn't an answer," he said. Coors said his questions about the corrections officers appeared to go in one ear and out the other.

"They had their minds made up and they are going through with it come hell or high water," said Coors. "and they want everyone else to make concessions to pay for it."

"E-911 is just a computer," said Johnson. "It's not going to give people anymore cars out there." Johnson said Kalkaska is operating its E-911 system out of their Sheriff's department and that Crawford County should have done the same.

JAIL EXPANSION IS POSTPONED

"The commissioners resent us because we're the biggest and most costly department," said Hatfield, "but the costs here are not of our making." He said he cannot control the number of inmates in the jail, state requirements his department has to adhere to, or the ever increasing demand for more officers.

"There was a time when the county's Sheriff department had a night watchman with a key to the cells and two or three part time deputies," said Hatfield, "but that time has gone and the department has doubled and tripled ten times over."

Hatfield said the commission has spent so much time working on E-911 that they have neglected to deal with the problem of overcrowding at the county jail.

Benefit Residents

needed to locate the caller could have been tragic.

"It takes only seven minutes for brain damage to occur in a person who has quit breathing," he said, "even to the point where brain death can occur." With E-911 the location of the child would have been a given, not a mystery. Speed is always a factor where emergency services are involved, he said.

The computer read-out will indicate which ambulance service, fire department and law enforcement agency needs to be notified in case of an emergency.

"In the past this has been a problem when calls came from residences close to a boundary and the wrong emergency service agency was dispatched," said Akers.

The E-911 read-out also contains a list of the last four calls the system received from a caller. Akers explained that this is extremely beneficial to an ambulance unit, responding to a complaint of chest pains. If they knew the caller had called with similar complaints, it might alert them of a possible serious problem, explained

Akers.

Law enforcement officers could also benefit if they were responding to a domestic conflict and could be told that twice during that same month the caller had reported domestic abuse. The officer might decide to call for back-up before confronting the situation alone.

Taylor and Akers said it was their goal to offer the people of Crawford County the best possible emergency dispatch service available, but that the program's current budget restraints could make this impossible.

Vikings Win First, Ready For Homecoming Clash

The Grayling High School football team picked up its first win of the 1991 season last Friday when the Vikings beat the Lincoln-Alcona Tigers, 20-16.

Grayling received the opening kick-off on their own 30-yard line. In that first drive, junior quarterback Mike Kirmo was two for two in passing, hitting junior wide receiver Mitch McMillan for a ten-yard gain to the eight-yard line and completing a seven-yard pass to senior tight end Jim Schwartz.

With fourth down and three on the five-yard line, Grayling decided to go for the field goal, with junior kicker Johannes Blekeli kicking 22 yards and bringing the score to 3-0.

"When we kicked off to them, our defense did very well," said Coach David Larkin. "We stopped them three times. On two consecutive runs, they made no gains."

On third down, an Alcona throw was intercepted by defensive back McMillan on the Tiger 45-yard line. He returned the ball 21 yards to the Alcona 24, successfully stopping their opening drive. The period ended with the Vikings at fourth down and three.

The second quarter opened with Alcona's second possession. At fourth and three, the middle of the Viking defense stopped them short of a first down, said Larkin.

On Grayling's next drive, they executed a big play on third and five, when Kirmo gained six yards on an option. Moments later, Larkin used a time-out to call a pass play.

"I felt we were too far away to kick a field goal," he explained. "It was somewhat of a gamble, but Mike came through and threw a perfect pass-- an 18-yard gain to Schwartz at the 14-yard line. That drive was kept alive by Mike Kirmo."

Blekeli kicked another field goal, to move the Vikings to 6-0.

Alcona got the ball back one more time, but at fourth and one was stopped by the Viking defense, which Larkin said was playing extremely well.

SECOND HALF

On the opening kick-off of the third quarter junior kicker Mikkel Gylling made his second touchdown-saving tackle of the game. (The first one came after GHS's first field goal.)

"Thanks to his speed, we were able to stop a touchdown," said Larkin.

Nevertheless, Alcona had returned the ball all the way to the Viking 25, and then scored and completed a two-point conversion pass to take the lead, 8-6.

Grayling answered with a 69-yard touchdown drive of their own. Larkin said their big play came on third and eight on the 21-yard line, when Kirmo threw a perfect pass to McMillan at the two. Junior halfback Jason Brigham ran the ball in for a TD on the next play. The extra point kick failed, bringing the score to 12-8.

Thirty seconds into the fourth period, Alcona took possession of the ball at their own 42-yard line and moved it 58 yards for a touchdown. Their two-point conversion was good, taking the score to 16-12.

Grayling answered this second challenge, taking the ball 67 yards from their own 33 yard line for another TD.

The key play in this drive, said Larkin, came on fourth and two at the 32-yard line, when Kirmo, running the ball, made a great second effort after spinning away from the Tiger defense to make a first down at the 29.

On the next play, Kirmo threw a 21-yard touchdown pass to Schwartz that was called back for clipping. On the following play, the Viking quarterback completed a pass from the 24 to junior halfback Gary Schroyer at the one-yard line. Schroyer then scored for Grayling on a one-yard run.

"He got the game-winning TD on great blocking by senior guard Scott Hartman and junior center Jason Medler," said Larkin.

Schroyer ran in the two-point conversion to bring the score to 20-16, where it remained through the final six minutes of the game despite offensive threats by the Tigers.

STATS AND COMMENTS

In the rushing column, Schroyer had 20 carries for 100 yards; Brigham, 16 carries for 67 yards; and Kirmo, six carries for 26 yards.

Kirmo was six for 11 (92 yards) in passes.

McMillan had one interception and one fumble recovery.

Leading tacklers were senior Arnold Randall and Hartman with ten apiece and Schwartz with nine.

"I was very proud of Mike Kirmo and the way he came back after a poor start in the first two games," said Larkin. "He made the difference in our offense. He came through in crucial situations for us."

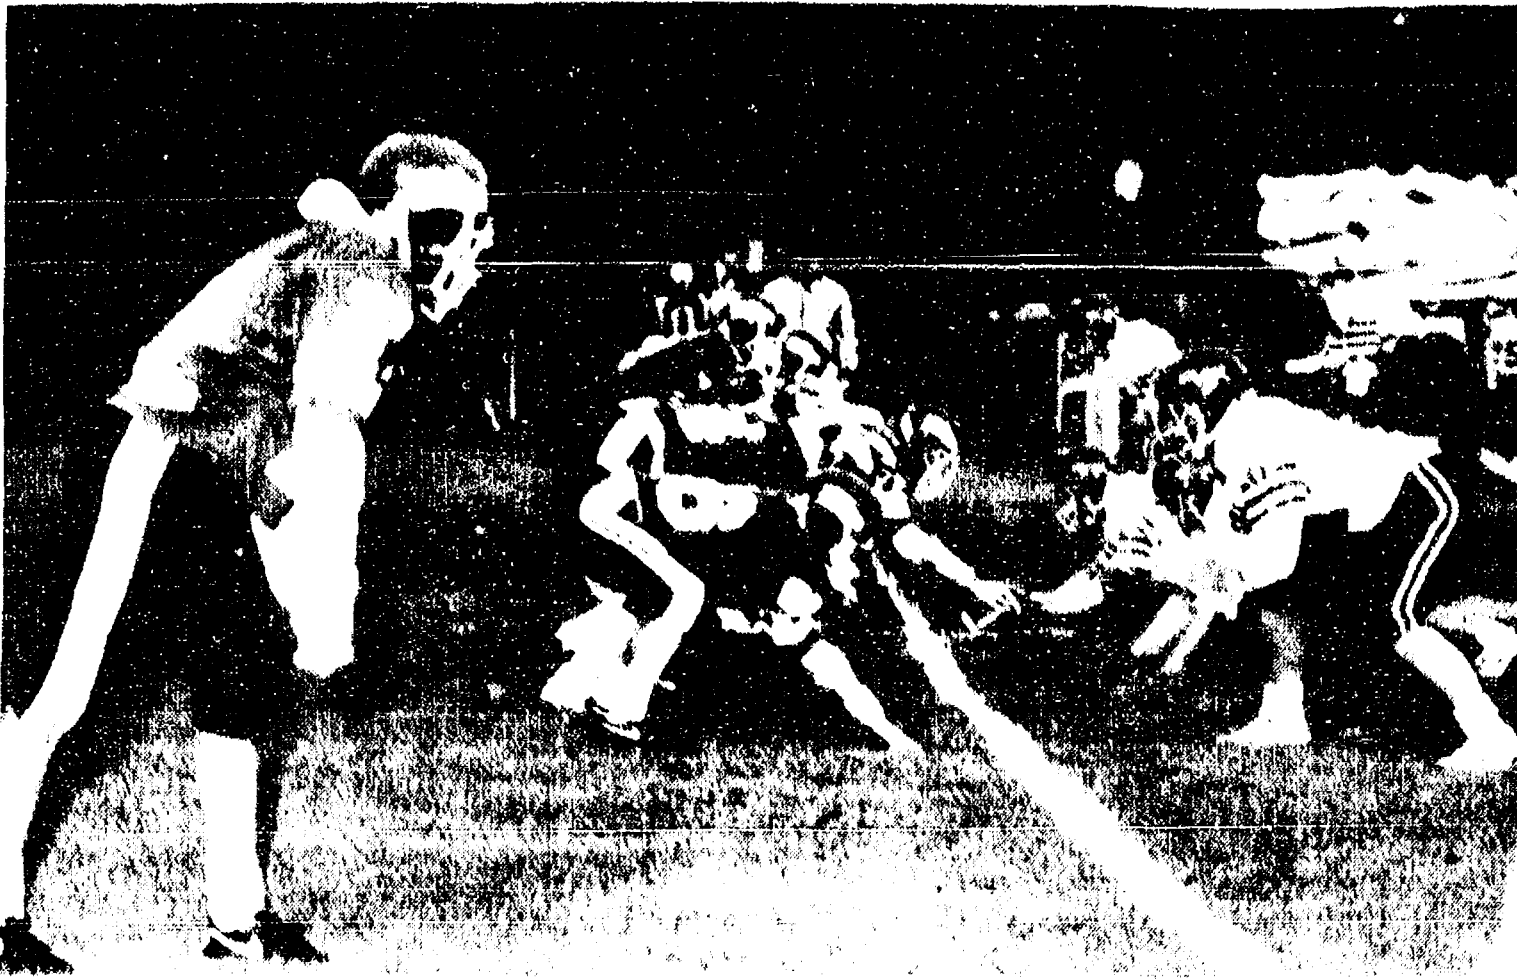

Kirmo added, "I started the year off slow but hopefully I ironed out the wrinkles."

"I'm very happy for the entire team," said Larkin. "They had been looking forward to this first conference game. It was also my first win as a head coach."

The Vikings now go for their second conference win on Friday, September 27, at 7:30 p.m., when they face Rogers City in the GHS Homecoming game.

"We're looking forward to it," Larkin said. "They are the defending conference champs and they went to the play-offs last year. It should be an exciting game."

OFFENSE CLICKS--Mike Kirmo gets ready to receive the snap as the Grayling offense made big plays all night against Lincoln-Alcona.

Lincoln Alcona Tops JV Football Team 22-6

The Grayling High School junior varsity football team was defeated, 22-6, by Lincoln-Alcona last Thursday.

The Vikings were on the scoreboard first when sophomore quarterback Tim Donahoe threw a 45-yard pass to freshman flanker Steve Bugyi. The extra point failed, but the Vikings were ahead, 6-0.

On the Tigers' first possession, they answered with a touchdown of their own. The two-point conversion was good, taking the score to 8-6.

Alcona scored again in the second period, making it 16-6 at half-time.

They scored a third time at the end of the third quarter, to take the final score to 22-6.

In spite of the score, the defense did a good job several times stopping the Tigers inside the 20-yard line, said Coach Fred Wolcott.

He said that sophomore middleline-backer Brent Kernstock and defensive safety Matt Van Sickle had good games.

Tim Donahoe, in his first start at quarterback, did a nice job.

"He got every snap, executed the offense well and overall played a good game," said Coach Wolcott.

Freshman running back Scott Baker "ran hard," he added.

But the Vikings have to improve their line blocking and ground game if they are to be successful this year, said Wolcott.

The JV squad travels to Rogers City on Thursday, September 26, for a 6:30 p.m. contest.

"That's usually a pretty tough game," said Wolcott.

Freshmen Drop Pair

The Grayling High School freshman girls basketball team fell to Standish, 56-25, and Lincoln-Alcona, 36-23, last week.

In the September 16 game against the Panthers, the team started out pretty well, staying close to Standish, said Coach Mark Hartman. "But the opponent had a lot of height and controlled the boards. The team played well, considering that Standish was a lot taller team."

Coach Hartman said Jessica Hall had a good game on defense and scored four points. Carol Lanczy was leading scorer with eight. Lynne Rochette added three. Angie Young, Trish Straw, Danyell Galvani, Mandy Duvall and Kim Haske all had two points apiece.

ALCONA GAME

The team played good defense, hustled well and was aggressive on the boards, said Hartman of the September 18 contest against the Tigers.

"On offense, the team executed the plays well, but the shots were falling short."

He said that Lanczy had a fine game with 13 points. Hall had a good defensive game and scored four points. Rochette, Straw and Misty Burden all added two points for the Vikings.

"Now we will be getting ready for the always tough Gaylord team," said Hartman.

The freshman squad hosts Gaylord on Wednesday, September 25, and Roscommon on Monday, September 30. Both games begin at 6:30 p.m.

Vikings Stop Boyne City 55-48

The Grayling High School girls varsity basketball team went one and one last week, beating Boyne City on September 19, but falling to Marcellus on September 21.

The victory against the Ramblers was a total team effort, said Coach Howard Lehti, with players in double figures and rebounding and free throw shooting the best of the season.

Grayling was 15 for 29 at the foul line, with junior guards Elissa Cox going two for three in the third period and Heidi Craigie, nine for 11 in the second half.

"Heidi was outstanding," said Coach Lehti. "She really was helpful in the fourth quarter."

With two minutes remaining in the game, the Vikings shifted to a four-corner offense.

"We had a five-point lead," explained Lehti, "and we wanted to pull out their man-to-man defense, keeping the middle lane open to drive. We also wanted to keep the ball in the hands of the best ball handlers and free throw shooters. They kept fouling Heidi. She was eight for nine in the fourth period. They did exactly what we expected and it worked perfectly."

In spite of the final score, the game was close most of the way. Boyne led, 10-7, at the end of the first quarter. The teams were tied at 21 at the half. And the Ramblers led again at, 38-36, at the end of the third. But the Vikings outscored Boyne, 19-10, in the fourth quarter, to bring the final score to 55-48.

Junior Amy Vandecar had three points, seven rebounds and four assists for the Viking effort.

"Amy did a nice job on rebounds and was really good with assists," said Lehti. "With two or three people on her, she'd pass to the open wing or low post."

Craigie had a season high 17 points, with two three-pointers coming in the fourth period along with her nine free throws. She also had one assist and four steals.

Cox added another 14 points and her six steals, in a pressure-type defense, led to points, said Lehti.

Senior Brenda Moshier had 11 points, 11 rebounds, three assists and four steals — her best all-around effort to this point, said Lehti.

Junior Sarah Micek had six points, nine rebounds, one assist and two steals. Lehti said hers was another good all-around effort.

"She has been helping us on the boards and we expect that to continue."

Sophomore Angie Mertes had three points, two assists and six steals.

"She played excellent defense," said Lehti. "She's getting better every ball game and is another reason our defense was so effective."

Junior Valerie Schanshad one point, one rebound and one assist.

"She came in and played a valuable role in relief after Vandecar got into foul trouble," said Lehti.

He concluded, "I was pleased with the total team effort in this ball game. It was not easy for Grayling in spite of the score. Up to the fourth quarter, everything was nip and tuck. It was an exciting game to watch but rather nerve-wracking if you were sitting on the bench. It was an important win and gave a little confidence to the team."

MARCELLUS GAME

Grayling didn't fare so well against downstate Marcellus, who beat the Vikings 39-28.

"We were only two and a half buckets behind at half-time and had a good third quarter when we took the lead in the first two to three minutes," said Lehti. "We used a different offense in the third and it proved highly effective."

But Marcellus outscored Grayling, 13-5, in the fourth period.

"We simply have to score more than five points a quarter at the varsity level," said Lehti. "The shots weren't dropping and there was a lack of communication on the floor. The turnovers were too high and there was a lack of rebounding. Maybe it was the fatigue factor from the long trip. We were getting one shot and no rebounds and our defense was not as sharp as it had been in the Boyne City ball game."

Furthermore, in contrast to their earlier game, the Vikings were only five for 17 at the foul line as opposed to Marcellus' 11 for 18.

Craigie again led the team in points with 13.

"She's on a confidence role," said Lehti. "Boyne City made her believe that she can score and now she wants to."

Micek added eight points; Mertes, Cox and Moshier had two apiece; and Vandecar had one.

Nevertheless, it was a fun trip and well worth the time and fundraisers, said Lehti. The team stayed two nights in Three Rivers, the girls had a chance to make new friends and the Marcellus parents provided a dinner on Saturday night for a crowd packed with players, their relatives and school personnel.

The Vikings host league-leading Lincoln-Alcona in their homecoming game on Thursday, September 26, and Whittemore-Prescott, another conference foe, on Tuesday, October 1.

Heidi Craigie

Alcona has a 2-0 record, followed by Onaway (1-1), Rogers City (1-0), and Grayling and Whittemore (0-1).

JVs Win Twice

The Grayling High School girls junior varsity basketball team added two more games to the win column last week, besting both Boyne City on Thursday and Marcellus on Saturday.

Freshman Nicole Parker was high scorer with 13 points in the Vikings' 47-29 defeat of the Ramblers.

Parker and McCurdy had good all-around ball games, offensively and defensively, said Coach Dallas Hudson. Micek had an excellent offensive game, with several steals to aid the Viking cause.

"We dominated them on defense and basically that was the ball game," said Coach Hudson. "The whole team played excellent defense."

MARCELLUS VICTORY

The JV squad fared just as well against Marcellus on Saturday, beating them 37-27.

Parker again led the team in scoring with 14 points. McCurdy had ten; McClain, seven; sophomore Jennifer Fassinger, Lovely and sophomore Heather Bindschatel, two apiece.

"Jessica McClain had her best game of the year so far," said Hudson. "Nicole Parker and Darcie McCurdy continue to improve each week."

"Marcellus was a very good ball club," he continued. "This was a well-played game by both teams. It is my belief that Grayling's physical conditioning and its defensive play in the fourth quarter was the reason for this victory."

The junior varsity squad will be looking to improve their 3-2 record with home games against Lincoln-Alcona on Thursday, September 26, and Whittemore-Prescott on Tuesday, October 1. Tip-off time for both contests is 6:15 p.m.

8th Graders Beat Kalkaska

The Grayling Middle School 8th grade girls basketball A squad beat the Kalkaska Blue Blazers, 30-26, on September 16.

"Again our defense kept us in the game," said Coach Jim Parker.

He added that Jessica Wyss played excellent defense.

A lot of fouls by both teams kept some team members from playing more often, Parker continued.

"We have to keep working on our offense."

GAYLORD ST. MARY

In their Wednesday contest, the A squad made it 3-0 for the season with a 25-19 victory over Gaylord St. Mary.

High scorer for the game was Mandy McEvers with ten points. Amy Neal added seven; Wyss and Sarah Amman, two each; and Jenny Wallace and Brooke Blaauw, one each.

Once again, the Viking defense "kept us in the game," said Parker. "We still have to work on offense. Gaylord St. Mary was much improved over last year."

Both 8th grade squads travel to Roscommon on Wednesday, September 25. The A team plays immediately after the B squad game is completed.

The Grayling Middle School 8th grade girls basketball B team defeated Kalkaska, 31-13, last Monday.

"The whole team, from the starters on down, played a super game—both offensively and defensively," said Coach John Smock.

"Starting forward Brion Davis came into her own by scoring a game high 12 points. Forward Jennifer Pahssen played a good game with six points. Guard Trisha Ormsbee led the team with eight rebounds. Sarah Medler was excellent, leading the team at point guard."

Smock said the team has been working hard in practice and "it definitely paid off. I'm extremely proud of the entire team and very pleased with the way they performed."

"This is probably the best defensive game I have seen in a long time. They allowed a total of five points to Kalkaska for the first half."

ST. JOSEPH GAME

However, on Wednesday against West Branch St. Joseph, the Vikings fell, 20-16.

"After Monday night's win, we came out flat in the first half," said Smock. "As a result, St. Joseph led at half-time, 8-6. The second half was a lot better. We came out and ran a better offense and played tougher on defense."

Smock said that Ormsbee played a tremendous game, both offensively and defensively.

"Trisha had six points to lead the team in scoring and led the team in rebounding with seven. She also had eight steals."

He said Pahssen also played a good game, with four points, six rebounds and five steals.

"We'll have to avoid coming out flat against Roscommon (Wednesday, September 25, at 6 p.m.). If we can come out of the blocks right away against the Bucks, we should be able to win. I will take the blame for the team coming out flat against St. Joseph. It didn't help to lose our point guard Sarah Medler to fouls. She is an important cog in our offense. Next week will definitely be different."

7th Graders Defeat Kalkaska

The Grayling Middle School 7th grade girls basketball A team beat Kalkaska, 30-17, on September 16, and Gaylord St. Mary's, 29-13, on the 18th.

Coach Harold Mertes said the team played excellent defense in both contests.

"They're a very coachable group," he added.

On Wednesday, September 25, the 8th graders host the Roscommon Bucks, with the B squad match to begin at 6 p.m.

The Grayling Middle School 7th grade girls basketball B squad defeated the Kalkaska Blue Blazers, 25-11, on September 16.

Jessica Waite and Jaymie Brannan shared scoring honors with eight points each.

"The team stayed within the concept of what we are teaching," said Coach Jim Ritter. "Team defensive strategy and a spread offense that uses off-ball picks and good passing. Our

Space Stories, Space Invaders

Once upon a time there was a little girl named Sarah. She decided to go for a walk. She told her mom and off she went.

Then out of no where Sarah saw footprints in the sand. They didn't look like normal footprints. They were long and very pointed. So, she decided to follow them. But, just as she did she remembered what her mother said, she said to be back by dinner. But, Sarah was very curious, so she did follow them.

Then she came to an opening in the woods. She saw a big, white spaceship and a bunch of little green men with antennas and they only had one eye. Then she saw the head chief. He was standing up on a big thing and he was talking about invading the Earth.

Then they saw Sarah and they put her in their spaceship. They took her to a planet called B65. It has rocks and one red, tall tree. They told Sarah that that was where they had their meetings. Sarah asked them if they like her. They said, "Yes, but where do you live?"

"I live on Earth, in Michigan."

They said they though she was from a different planet and was also invading Earth.

"No, I'm not," Sarah said.

"Then we won't invade the Earth. We did not know that there were nice people on Earth."

So, they took Sarah back home and they went back to B65.

One day I was stopped in the park by a bunch of people. They looked a little pale and they smelled like dead fish.

They said, "take me to your leader."

I said no, but they had ray guns.

They threatened to blow me apart. I had a 42 Max and I threatened them.

They said, "Your puny weapons won't work."

So, I tried to shoot them. It didn't work. I ran and called the police. They said I was making it up.

At that point I was running for dear life. I ran until I made it home. I went to my phone and called the National Guard. They came. The aliens wasted them.

Then a bell rang. It was my alarm. It was just a dream.

Kelly Meehan

Miss Wallace 5th Grade

It was a Sunday afternoon when everybody at the Meehan house was bored. The Meehan family's names were Mom, Dad, Renee, Kelly, and Erin. Erin said, "Well, since everybody is bored why don't we all go on a vacation for a whole week?"

Kelly decided to go to space. The parents went to pay for a spaceship at the Space Center. When everybody got on the spaceship everybody went looking around and thought it was really neat.

All of a sudden the spaceship started and everybody fell and smashed against each other, so they just laid where they landed in the spaceship.

Then all of the sudden they landed with a thud. Before they came out of the spaceship they put on their space suits. When everybody got out they saw two poles holding up a sign saying "MARS."

Then two Martians came up to the Meehan family and one said, "Hi, my name is Marshall."

The other one said, "My name is Marshen."

The Meehan's introduced themselves.

Later the Martians showed them everywhere around the the Martian friends, too. The other Martians were very nice.

Two days passed and everybody was having a good time. Another day passed. Everybody was having even more fun and everybody grew more happier.

Now it was the last day at the Martian's home and they had to leave. That day they said goodbye to one another at night so they could leave real early in the morning.

When they woke up their two closest Martians were waiting outside the Meehan's spaceship to see them once more before they left.

When the Meehans came out to see them again they all gave each other a big hug and the Meehans got in their spaceship again and drove off.

When the Meehans got home they all started talking about how much fun they had and how much they missed the Martians. Then they all got tired and went to bed.

One day my dog, Spud, and I went for a walk in the park. I saw this little green guy. He was sitting down. I said hi, but he didn't talk back. I walked in front of him. he had a dart in his stomach, but it was a sleeping dart.

I ran to my house and my mom wasn't there, so I sat on the steps. I saw this little green thing, so I went to see what was over there. He had a dart gun.

I ran inside. I called the cops. They said, "Sure, kid." I hung up and grabbed my dad's pistol.

I went over there and said, "Stick it up." He was crying because he couldn't get back. His spaceship was broken.

He was a little bit weird. He had two antennas and a pair of sunglasses on. He was about three feet tall and lived on Mars. He said it was a cold place. I gave him pants to wear. I tried to help him. I fixed his spaceship.

So, he got his spaceship fixed then he went back to Mars.

The Magical Stump

Once there lived a man named Mr. Jacky. Mr. Jacky was very lonely. He wanted a wife because he did not have any other family. He was looking for some land to harvest on. One day after looking for a long time, he came across an old cottage. Mr. Jacky thought it had very good land. "If this house is empty I will use as my own." So first he knocked on the door, no one answered, so he walked in, nothing was there except an old stump. Mr. Jacky set up his things. As days passed no one came back to the house so he thought that he was safe, so he decided to start farming. But he could not understand what the stump was there for. Then he got very, very, very lonely so he started talking to himself.

One day he got so lonely he kept on muttering, "I wish I had a wife." Mr. Jacky said this 12 times. When he turned around there were 12 women standing there. He was so surprised that he screamed so loud that men all over the county came to see what was the matter. Fourteen men came, two of them were married, 11 of them weren't. So the 11 who wanted wives took 11 women, and the two who were already married went back to their work. Those who had wanted wives now had what they wanted. Even Mr. Jacky and they lived happily ever after. Thanks to the Magical Stump!

Students Prepare For MEAP Test

By Student Council Executive Board

It's fall again and that means the MEAP is coming, but what is the MEAP?

The acronym MEAP stands for the Michigan Educational Assessment Program. All 4th, 7th, and 10th graders in the state of Michigan take this test. The purpose of the test is to assess the basic skills of those mentioned above in the areas of reading, science, and math.

G.M.S. students are getting ready to take THE TEST. (This year seventh graders will take the total battery of tests and other grades will take only specific section of the test.) The student council and the middle school staff at G.M.S. are working on several ideas to help the student body become aware of the importance of doing well on the test as well as planning some fun activities to go along with this testing experience. The council is making banners to encourage students to do their best. Other activities include class meetings, pep rallies, learning test taking techniques, and reviewing basic skills to gain VICTORY OVER THE MEAP.

We hope through the efforts of the administration, staff and student council at G.M.S. that the MEAP will become a more positive experience for the students and that G.M.S. will reap positive results on THE MEAP.

The School Page will feature exceptional work by Crawford AuSable School District Students. Elementary, middle school, and high school instructors are encouraged to submit outstanding work by their students.

Submit material at the Grayling Elementary through Barbara Mick, at the Frederic Elementary through Pat Nunn, at the drop-off box in the main office in the Grayling Middle School, and at the Grayling High School through Nancy Lemmen.

Resource Review

By Bruce Patrick DNR Officer

Waterfowl season opens locally on October 12th. If you hunt ducks, geese, mergansers, coots, gallinules, rails, or snipe anywhere in Michigan you may not use or possess shotshells loaded with a material other than non-toxic steel shot. Further, if you hunt any small game species on the Shiawassee National Refuge or on any state-owned managed waterfowl area (i.e. Fish Point) steel shot is required.

The reason for this regulation is that traditional lead shot is highly poisonous to waterfowl. All birds of the family Anatidae (ducks and geese) require a certain amount of grit for grinding food in their gizzard. This grit is normally pieces of stone picked up and ingested for that purpose. Ducks can't tell the difference between pieces of stone and expended lead shot shell pellets when they are looking for grit, often ingesting pellets instead of stones. As early as 1919, researchers found that lead pellets poisoned ducks who ingested them. Six pellets are always fatal and in many instances a single lead pellet would kill a duck.

The use of steel shot for duck hunting has been phased in over about 15 years and is now mandatory nationwide. This regulation has met with much resistance, but is now generally accepted. The main complaints concerning steel shot have been: cost, availability, effectiveness, and possible damage to firearms. Cost and availability are economic market functions and are best addressed directly at that point. The Law of Supply and Demand should regulate these aspects. When waterfowl are within range, steel shot is every bit as effective as lead. A steel #4 shot shell contains 20% more pellets than a lead shot shell. Most hunters opt for larger shot sizes in steel than in lead to compensate for steel's quicker loss of energy as it leaves the barrel. As for steel shot damaging modern firearms, tests have shown this to be unlikely except for older guns with relatively soft barrels and double barrel guns with thin barrels joined by solder. Check with the gun's manufacturer if in doubt. Most removable choke tubes are designed for use with steel shot and are unhampered by its use.

Although a few people are still unconvinced of its value, steel shot is now mandatory. If it wasn't, the option would likely be a total closure on waterfowl hunting throughout the country.

Doodles From The Tall Timber

Wendell L. Hoover Park Interpreter

We have received, over the years, various types of artifacts which relate to logging. The typical axes, saws, cooking utensils, ledgers, and what not and we have received a wheeled vehicle in the form of a wagon. Wheeled vehicles enjoy a unique place in our history and one that is very popular and much taken for granted is the bicycle.

According to some information I have, the first wheeled machine that looked like a bike was called a "draisienne." It was made out of wood by a German forest ranger, and while it didn't have pedals, he could stay seated while he coasted between steps. It wasn't until the 1860s that pedals were introduced and they were attached to the front wheel, much like a child's tricycle. This bike called a "velocipede" was banned from use in some cities because they frightened horses.

All through the 1870s and 80s the high-wheel bikes were popular despite its fifty to sixty inch front wheel. By 1893, the air filled tire and a lower profile much like that of today, made bike riding more comfortable and the tandem or two-seater bikes were very popular. The men sat in back and the women sat in front. It is reported that much courting was done on bikes.

Now we have very popular long distance races with really super lightweight bikes and off the road bikes called mountain bikes, which are becoming more popular.

One man is dead, one is being held and one wound up in the hospital following a fight Saturday night at the AuSable Bar on Cedar Street.

The dead man, James Gary Jackson, 23, of Warren, and a member of a motorcycle organization known as the Renegades, was shot at approximately 11:50 p.m. Saturday, September 21st.

Being held in the shooting is Larry M. Evans, 33, of Grayling. Evans was arrested at the time of the shooting on an open charge. He appeared before Justice O. E. Williamson for arraignment Monday morning, September 23rd, when he was charged with murder.

Melvin Willoughby, owner of the AuSable Bar, was taken to Mercy Hospital where he was treated for broken ribs and numerous cuts and bruises in the fight.

According to the Grayling Police Chief, Harold Hatfield Jr., prior to the shooting there were 12 or 14 motorcyclists in the AuSable Bar on Cedar Street. A fight with the owner, Willoughby, took place on the dance floor pertaining to the dancing being done by one of the cyclists with a companion.

In the process of the fight someone threw a table through a window, broke a window out of the door, and a general fight took place. Local citizens and cyclists were involved, Hatfield said.

According to the police, Evans was in the bar at the time of the fight, left the bar and went across the street, removed a shotgun from a vehicle, came back and was standing outside of the bar. The shooting took place at that time.

As the group was leaving, the City Police were called to the scene. They were later assisted by sheriff's deputies and State Police. The motorcyclists were taken to the courthouse where statements were made pertaining to the shooting. They were released about 4 a.m. Sunday. They left town peaceably. They reappeared Sunday at the municipal parking lot for repair of a couple of their bikes and left town, again without incident.

A fire of undetermined origin left the AuSable Woodworking plant in Frederic in ruins last Saturday night, September 21.

Gene Kaiser, vice-president of the company said Monday that damages to the plant were estimated at over $100,000.

All of the machinery was destroyed, five buildings were gutted along with unfinished stock that went up in the blaze.

Kaisers said he was going downtown about 20 minutes to 10 and as he passed the plant, noticed smoke pouring from the building. The alarm had already been turned in by the night watchman.

Animals Needing Help

HOMELESS PUPPY—The Crawford County Animal Shelter staff tries to make the puppies and kittens brought there feel "at home," but it can still be scary for a young animal when it leaves its mother and litter mates for the first time. This is just such a puppy. It is ready for adoption and needs a new home. Shelter hours are Monday through Friday from 1-3 p.m. and on weekends from 11 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.

Pet Care Tip

You can bathe your pet in a sink, bathtub or outside with a hose, depending upon its size and personality, says the Animal Protection Institute of America. Wet and wash the face and ears last to prevent chills and shaking. Dry the animal completely before returning it to a cold kennel. Watch how groomers and show dog owners bathe their animals. One danger: bathing too often destroys natural oils necessary for a healthy coat.

Verse or Worse

By Joe Murphy

Wake Up Time

What has happened to our country
To this land of freedom and liberty
When folks must hide behind locked doors
I can't call that being free

When a child on their way to school
Must walk in constant fear
Of murderers, rapists, and robbers
I say that something is very rotten here

When the law is something to be mocked
When school children rape and kill
When just reading your morning paper
Is enough to make you ill

When our politicians refuse to face the facts
And just bury their heads in the sand
That our country has real problems
Is real easy to understand

Our prisons have revolving doors
Just there to rehabilitate those poor men
When they have them rehabilitated
They turn them loose to kill again

When will we wake up and smell the coffee
And really get down to the nitty gritty
Of solving the problems we face today
In every little town and big city

Let's yell loud enough to wake our politicians up
And to send them a message loud and clear
That it's time to get down to business
That we have had it up to here

The Bible Speaks

From The Calvary Baptist Church

"Christian" Gossip

Two religious clergy recently made national news when one sued the other over alleged gossip. (Which is more wrong, "Christian" gossip, or Christians going to law in violation of 1 Corinthians 6:1-7?) Nevertheless, talebearers or gossips use the tongue to commit offensive sins which bring division and destruction to families, churches, and communities. Centuries ago God warned against the gossip of talebearers: "Thou shalt not go up and down [as] a talebearer among thy people. . . ." (Lev. 19:16a). God says avoid those people who will flatter you to your face, then use deceit to slander and destroy you from behind your back. "He that goeth about [as] a talebearer revealeth secrets: therefore meddle not with him that flattereth with his lips." (Pro. 20:19). The gossip you trust as your best friend may be your worst enemy. A true friend tries to help others over problems without publicly destroying them. This applies toward both sinners and saints. "Let him know, that he which converteth the sinner from the error of his way shall save a soul from death, and shall hide a multitude of sins." (Jam. 5:20). "And above all things have fervent charity among yourselves for charity shall cover the multitude of sins." (1 Pe. 4:8).

God calls one a "backbiter" who uses gossip or talebearing to slander or destroy another person. One in fellowship with God or one seeking to abide in God's presence does not practice such actions. "[He that] backbiteth not with his tongue, nor doeth evil to his neighbour, not taketh up a reproach against his neighbour." (Psa. 15:3). A tongue given over to evil is one of the most dangerous weapons on earth. "And the tongue [is] a fire, a world of iniquity; so is the tongue among our members, that it defileth the whole body, and setteth on fire the course of nature; and it is set on fire of hell." (Jam. 3:6). It is a weapon beyond human control. "But the tongue can no man tame; [it is] an unruly evil, full of deadly poison." (Jam. 3:8).

It is possible to disagree without being disagreeable. It is possible to identify and condemn sin without personally attacking the sinner. For nearly 20 years we have publicly ministered God's Holy Scriptures, which identify and condemn sin in all forms. We have deliberately avoided identifying local gossips who slander us. Even those who have ridiculed our faith, questioned our personal credibility, or threatened us with lawsuits in this world and damnation in the next. The disclaimer which follows our column each week originated because of such veiled threats. As an honest friend, we strive to speak the truth in public about right and wrong. God often uses such Bible truth to prick the conscience of a "Christian" gossip, which exposes their real hatred and violence within. However, reasonable persons even when offended, will strive to be polite and courteous toward each other to avoid "Christian" gossip.

Pumpkins and Tulips

Autumn is pumpkin time. Seeds planted last spring, which matured in the warm summer soil, have produced these vibrant orange orbs.

In contrast to the pumpkin seed, the tulip bulb was planted much later, in the cool of autumn. It developed during the winter in soil which was cold and, at times, even frozen. Yet, the tulip, too, emerges as a vibrantly colored creation.

There is another seed . . . the seed of faith . . . which may be planted at different times, depending upon the condition of the soul. Yet, whether planted early, in the springtime of youth, or later, in the autumn of their years; one truth is constant: God has promised love and mercy to all of His children, regardless of when they accept Him as their Father: "And everyone [who accepts God on faith] . . . will receive a hundredfold, and inherit eternal life. But many that are first will be last and the last first." (Matt. 19:29-30)

As you worship, plant your seed of faith in the care of the Creator. He tends pumpkins . . . and tulips.

Your Social Security

Beneficiaries and Claimants Should Know Rights and Responsibilities.

In this column, we regularly explain your rights under Social Security. It's important for you to know about monthly disability, survivors, and retirement benefits and when and how to get them. And, you should be aware of what Medicare provides when you're eligible.

But there is another side to the coin. It is also essential that you clearly understand certain responsibilities you have under Social Security. Here are some prime examples:

When you file a claim—Benefits are not paid automatically when you become disabled, retire, or after your death. An application must be filed with Social Security and certain evidence must be submitted, such as a certified or original birth record for retirement claims. Social Security representatives will explain what is needed and it's up to you to cooperate fully in providing proofs or information.

While you're getting benefits—You must promptly report events that may affect your payments. For example, notify Social Security when you change your address; expect earnings from work to exceed the annual exempt amount (or any amount if you get benefits because you are disabled); or you marry, divorce, or in some cases, if a child leaves your home. Disabled beneficiaries also need to report receipt of a public pension benefit, or workman's compensation payments.

The law also requires you to have a Social Security number for each dependent age 1 and over whom you list on your Federal tax return next year.

People receiving Supplemental Security Income (SSI) checks must also report any change in their income and living arrangement, and if their resources, or assets increase to above the allowable limit.

Social Security representatives will be glad to answer any questions you may have about either your rights or responsibilities under Social Security, SSI, and Medicare.

The toll-free phone number is 1-800-234-5772, available 7 a.m. to 7 p.m., weekdays. The Traverse City office, at 1111 E. Front St., is open weekdays, 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. The phone number is (616) 946-8361.

A representative is at the Court House in Grayling on the first and third Tuesday of each month, 1:30-2.

Freedom Issues Topics For KCC Open Forum

Paradox of Freedom — A Global Dilemma, will be the topic of an open forum/public debate held at Kirtland Community College on October 1st at 4 p.m. Dr. Dorothy Franke, college president, will be the moderator.

This forum is sponsored by Kirtland Community College and the Phi Theta Kappa Honors Society. The public is encouraged and invited to attend and participate. There is no admission charge.

The purpose of this event is to discuss the concept of freedom in America and the emotional issues that can be generated by those freedoms.

Travel Series Visits Russia

On October 3, the Community Education Program presents the second journey of the Travel and Adventure Series when Raphael Green takes us to Russia. Raphael Green has been filming the former Soviet Union since 1956. He has made four filming trips to Russia since "glasnost" and "perestroika" and has captured in sound and color the extraordinary changes taking place in this former bastion of communism. "Murmansk to Mt. Ararat" will help area residents to better visualize and relate to the sweeping changes now happening over this vast territory. Our journey will begin promptly at 7:30 p.m. in the Joseph Stripe Auditorium at Grayling High School. Tickets are $3.50 for adults and $3 for senior citizens and students. Group prices are available by calling 348-5459 (days) or 348-7641 (evenings). Individual tickets may be purchased at the door.
